The Name Taffy.

The name Taffy is a nickname for the whole Welsh people. The word is simply Davy (David), pronounced with aspiration; Sawney (Alexander) the most common Scotch name; Pat (Patrick) the most common Irish name; and John (John Bull) the most common English name. Each is used to designate the race or nationality to which it belongs. A similar case is that of Brother Jonathan, once commonly used to designate the people of the United States, but now largely superseded by Uncle Sam.

Memoranda in Glass.

A reader tells us that with the use of gum tragacanth, allowing a week for drying, two sheets of glass can be joined with a sheet of paper between them, without the slightest staining of the paper. It is suggested that this provides a new and useful means of making paper weights and other glass articles with calendars, etc., imbedded in them. The gum, while still wet, appears to have stained the paper; but every trace of this disappears as the drying out proceeds.—Scientific American.

Pasteurizing Milk.

The milk in the bottles may be placed in a boiler in which cold water comes up to the necks of the bottles. The boiler is then placed on the stove and heated until the water reaches a temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit as determined by the thermometer, where it is maintained for 30 minutes. The bottles are then removed, cooled in running water, and kept sealed until the milk is ready to serve. Pasteurization kills disease-causing germs.

Wonderful Natural Spectacle.

The Garden of the Gods is a tract of land about 500 acres in extent, near Colorado Springs, Colo. It abounds in weird and fantastic pinnacles of red and white sandstone, some of them more than 300 feet high. Among the chief features are the Cathedral Spires, the Balanced Rock, etc. The gateway of the garden consists of two enormous masses of red sandstone 330 feet high, sufficiently far apart for the roadway to pass between them.

Water on the Brain.

To many people it will come as a surprise to learn that our brains contain from 80 to 90 per cent of water, the remaining 10 or 20 per cent being a mass of white and gray matter, to which scientists have given various impressive names. Incidentally it might be mentioned that the average weight of a man's brain is about 48 ounces, and a woman's 43 ounces.

Japanese Smoking Customs.

Smoking is very common in Japan. All the men and most of the ladies smoke, the girls beginning when they are about ten years of age. The ladies have pipes with longer stems than the men, and if one of them wishes to show a gentleman a special mark of favor, she lights her pipe, takes a whiff, hands it to him, and lets him smoke.

Surprised Mother.

The missionary society was meeting at our house and the woman who was to lead the devotionals took the elastic band from her Bible, laid it on her lap and began to turn the pages to find the passage she was to read. During the solemn silence my young son marched over to her and, picking up the elastic, he announced: "Why, that's my mother's garter!"—Grit.

Not Strong on Ablution.

The Ainu feels that by washing his face and hands on great occasions he has paid his debt to civilization. The Tibetan considers that the oil of the body contributes needed warmth in his mountain life and refuses to wash it away, but does not object to washing his face and the tips of his fingers once in awhile.

The ancient Greeks, to secure resonance without the use of woodwork, placed under the seats of their theaters earthen pots, with the mouths turned toward the stage, the vibrating mass of air in these serving to reenforce the sound.

The Wolf Cry.

Timber wolves when separated raise their noses into the air and send out wireless calls that curdle the blood of every human and lesser animal within hearing. But the other timber wolves reply at once and work toward each other until the pack is united.

Lives Up to the Symptoms.

"You can nearly always tell a man who is suffering from this 'unrest,'" said Jud Tunkins, "by the way he manages to put in more time resting than anyone else in the neighborhood."

Do You "Hate" Yourself?

For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think."—Paul in his letter to the Romans, 12:3.

Mother.

"Love cannot stay at home; a woman cannot keep it to herself; and a mother is always spending it, giving it away to her children."—Macleod.

passage of the Adamson act 16 has been compared to the re- of the Missouri compromise in each was a Presidential candi- te's bid for votes, and each at- empted a truce through a surrend- er. The comparison may be extend- ed to the train of evil consequences issuing from both, in the former case leading through the Kansas bor- der troubles to the Civil war.

Everywhere the shadow of the Ad- amson surrender lies upon the na- tion's political and economic trails— a cause of humiliation to man jealous of their country's prestige and once confident of its courage; a milestone in the reckonings of those who study sinister drifts; a breeder of troubles greater than itself; a prognostication it may be, that in presidential years like this, further desperate bargains may be attempted b etween industrial groups and political managers, with American sovereignty on the auc- tion block.

With the Adamson act, railroad labor controversies became for the first time, as ex-President Taft re- cently pointed out, a country-wide menace, for that act solidified in one interest all the railway men of the country. Before its passage railroad strikes had been largely local, thus minimizing the country's inconven- iences and losses. It tended to make employes "the one big union" and promote c onditions under which the now moribund "outlaw" strike ran from c oast to coast this month as swiftly as influenza in 1918.

Aside from the war the Adamson act, making eight hours the basic railroad day, has been the chief single factor in creating the la- bor scarcity, and consequent dimin- ished production, which have con- tributed to the cumulative climb in the cost of living. It required that the nation's biggest industry, now employing more than 2,000,000 men, should enlarge as labor forces theo- retically by about one-third at the expense of other industries. At the same time it gave some roads so many employes that these got in each other's way and their own ef- ficiency fell off.

Railroad managers, many of them, declare that as a body railroad em- ployes have not done a full day's work since the Adamson act went into force. Formidable as the fin- ancial and mechanical problem of providing needed equipment is con- ceded to be, they say that the psych- ology of their men is a still more serious matter. Although the United States railroad administration has doubled wages over 1916, and ad- ded $1,100,000,000 to the annual railroad payroll individual efficiency has dropped to perhaps 60 per cent —the figures for example of the Pennsylvania shops.

Why should men serve an em- ployer with a faithful work when they have seen a Congress and a President cringe as they cracked the whip, and h urry to constrain the employe by laws they themselves dictated? The logical reaction to that object lesson was not work. It was the threat three lears later of Acting President Jewell, speaking for the railroad employes department of the A. F. of L., that if Con- gress returned the roads to their owners "we will tie up the railroads so tight that they will never run again."

The Adamson act, assuming in the circumstances of its passing the mas- tery of the railroad workers, fore- shadowed inevitably the thing that has happened: a formal demand by the members that the roads be turn- ed over to them That is the Plumb — [illegible] more sovietism, as Sena- tor Cummins has said the Sov- [illegible] is one in which "the wage [illegible] of a given industry or [illegible] exercises complete con- [illegible] community." The Plumb plan is designed for [illegible] fields of endeavor.

[illegible] parallel for the inci- [illegible] to the overthrow of the [illegible] Russian republic and [illegible] dictatorship of Lenine and Trotsky is not to be sought in the ravings of soapbox radicals or the cellar plottings of alien Rees. It is to be sought in legislatve and executive acts in 1916, when for a time American sovereignty ceased to be.—New York Mail.

NOT BY THEFT

Despite wide spread popularity of a contrary notion, mankind cannot live by theft alone, says the New York Sun. A man may for atime enjoy apparent prosperity as the result of robbing his neighbors of all they produce, but if his depredations are not checked his neighbors will ev- entually cease to produce anything worth stealing and he will fall into misery. Nevertheless punishment awaits every people which attempts to live by robbery. It will be indi- cated automatically, without the in- tervention of any man-made mach- inery, by the inexorable authority which writes the natural laws and when that authority has uttered its decrees no human legislative body or appelate court can set them asi le or, break t heir potency.

Senator Hitchcock's retirement as Democratic leader in the United States Senate virtually means that Hitchcock has s cented defeat .n his contest with Senator Underwood and is throwing up thesponge says the Pittsburg Press. Underwood represents the D emocrats who ques- tion the wisdom of Mr. Wilson's treaty policy and seek an opportunity to vote for reservations.

Donora mills are promoting a plan whereby employes will be assisted in securing a home. This is a practical method by means of which any com- munity can be made up of home build- ers and home owners, and which will have a tendency to make better cit- izens. Once a man owns a home he takes more interest in his home town and the community in general.

GETTING BIG BARGE READY FOR SERVICE

The Pittsburg Steel company is working on the big coke barge which they propose to utilize in lo- cal transportation service between Brownsville and the Monessen plant. It is expected to have the boat com- pleted sometime later in the season, just at a time when heavy crop movements will have a tendency to make a shortage of railroad cars. One of the officials of the company on Wednesday denied the state- ment that the company had let a contract for the building of 100 steel barges.

WEATHER MAP TO BE ISSUED IN PITTSBURG

That Pittsburg again will have its daily weather map after July 1st is the reassuring word brought back from Washington City by J. Frank Tilley, secretary of the Pittsburg Coal Exchange and Capt. A. O. Ackard, master of transpor- tation of the Carnegie line. The map, which is regarded as of the greatest importance to navigators and to shippers of perishable goods, was discontinued in the Pittsburg office about three years ago.

HERONS CLING TO OLD HOMES

Their Dwellings in Rotterdam Invaded, They Take Refuge in City's Zoological Gardens.

The gray herons of Rotterdam, fa- miliars of the city for centuries, have gradually, according to a corres- pondent of the Times of London, been pushed out of their old territories to make way for the growth of the port. The waters had been gathered into canals, the spaces began to dry, and little by little new streets built on piles invaded the heron ground. Her- ons, unlike storks, do not take to the dwellings of men, but they cling desperately to their nesting places, the elms and the willows of the boule- vards. Finally ousted, they preserved but one refuge and that the Zoological gardens, which in 1857 was establish- ed on one of the reclaimed areas. Some of the herons were put in an aviary and some of the wild ones, watching the proceeding, set up house in the elms close by. And so it came about that Rotterdam Zoological gar- dens can proudly lay claim to a nat- ural heronry in their gardens. But since 1857 Rotterdam has grown, and the parent birds have now four miles to fly to reach the waters for food for their nestlings. They cover the distance by day and night over the tramways, railways, and the noise and smoke of a city, the return to the nest marked by the usual outburst of welcoming cries from the voracious young.

BLIND WARNED OF DANGER

Mysterious Sense Tells the Sightless When There Are Obstacles Which They Must Avoid.

Blind men whom I met told me that as time passed I would sense obstruc- tions as I approached them. They give back an echo too faint for common ears, but audible to the delicate hear- ing of the blind.

There is, too, a mysterious some- thing which warns a blind man of his danger, but which he cannot under- stand. Some think it is an ever-so- delicate pressure of the air. There is really no knowing what it is but if, for instance, you were to take a tea tray and hold it two feet from a blind man's face he would shrink away, knowing it was there, but not knowing how he knew.

I am too young in the business of blindness to avoid collisions with such objects, but I begin to feel the sense growing in me, and with time it will develop.

Also, the crossing of streets was a problem, because the blind walker just naturally bears away to the left. If he was in an open space he would go round in a circle as hunters do who are lost in a forest. But in the city he merely misses the opposite walk and wanders about in midstreet until some kind pedestrian sets him right.— Ainsley Burroughs in the Saturday Evening Post.

Laundry Marks in Europe.

Laundry marks vary greatly in Eu- rope. Those used in England consist of certain small letters or figures stitched in red thread. In some parts of France linen is defaced by having the whole name and address of the laundry stamped upon it, and an addi- tional geometrical design to indicate the owner. In Batavia every piece has a number stamped on it in large let- ters. In other parts of Germany a small cotton label is attached by means of a hot water-proof adhesive. In Bulgaria each laundry has a large number of stamps engraved with de- signs, and in Russia the laundries mark linen with threads worked in arrow shape. In some Russian towns the police periodically issue regula- tions for laundries, while in Odessa books of marks are furnished annually to the laundry proprietors, and these marks and no others may be used. By this system criminals and revolution- ary agitators are often traced.

Tracing Origin of "Gob."

A side-light was thrown upon the word "gob" by the Scotsman of Au- gust 4, 1890, which said that when a meeting of the coast-guard takes place the men indulge in protracted yarns, a draw of the pipe, and a friendly chew. Such a session is invariably productive of a considerable amount of good-natured banter as well as free expectoration all around, wherefrom our friends came to be known as "gob bies" (from "gob," the mouth). In the process of time gob and gobbie came to be applied to the ships manned by the gobs.

LOW IN SCALE OF HUMANITY

Cave Dwellers in the Canary Islands Practically Live as Do the Wild Animals.

Principal cave-dwellers' settlements in the Canaries are at Atalaya, in the island of Grand Canary. The name means the "Giant's burrow," and from a distance the place closely re- sembles a rabbit-warren or a honey- comb swarming with bees. The caves are more or less in terraces on the side of a steep rock, overlooking a glen and river bed. Atalaya supplies the entire group of the Canaries with clay pots, every cave having its own set of rude appliances for making pots, and the people display great in- genuity and quickness in the work. Men, women and children squat about at the entrances to their caves, knead- ing the clay with their hands into elegant jars and using their finger nails to apply decorative lines.

These troglodytes, or cave dwellers, are almost like wild animals, having no morals, and very little clothing to boast of. During the summer the children run about almost naked, and the women wear the shortest of skirts. They are probably the last remnants of the aborigines of Grand Canary, who are known to have lived in caves 500 years ago. The cave dwellers are very different from the rest of the Islanders, who look upon them as pariahs and would as soon think of intermarrying with monkeys as with them.—Wide World Magazine.

THE TRUTH ABOUT EVIDENCE

Some Difference Between Its Theoret- ical Purpose and Its Presenta- tion in Legal Practice.

Evidence is that portion of the truth which your lawyer thinks will impress the judge or jury in your fa- vor. Any other portions of the same truth must therefore be irrelevant and immaterial and should not be admitted as evidence. Thus evidence is both part truth and partial truth.

The theoretical purpose of evidence is to bring out the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. In legal practice, however, it is used to emphasize unduly certain portions of the truth, to color other portions so as to imply things that are not the truth and to cover up the rest of the truth.

There are several kinds of evidence. Circumstantial evidence has probably convicted more innocent parties than any other kind. Documentary evi- dence has no doubt convicted more guilty parties than any other kind. And counter-evidence cannot always be made to count.

Truth crushed to earth may rise again, but not if your lawyer's objec- tions are sustained by the court. Ver- ily the seeker after truth has no busi- ness in a modern courtroom.—Otis C. Little.

Many Believe All This.

It is unlucky to drop a tear on a letter from a friend. If you blot your paper and send it away in that con- dition it will find the recipient in poor health. You are sure to witness a fight if you misdate a letter. Should your letter cross in the mails one coming from your sweetheart it will cross out love. It is a bad sign to receive an unsealed communication, though the soothsayers do not say just what will happen in that event, just contenting themselves with the expres- sion "bad sign" and leaving you to worry as to what it may bring. Should you get a letter with the stamp upside down you will make a mistake about money that very day "as ever was." If you want to hear from some one write him a long letter with a pen, telling him everything that is weigh- ing on your mind, then tear it up and burn the fragments. At that instant he will begin to think of you and know no peace until he has written to you. When an address is upside down it means bad luck.—Exchange.

"Before any one of the department managers of a big western concern places any important new policy be- fore the president for approval, he explains the plan in full to one of the other department heads, and obtains either his approval or his disapproval," says a writer in System, the Maga- zine of Business. "Then if his plan is approved and he takes it to the president for his O. K., the fact that the other department head has in- dorsed the plan makes it easier for the president to judge, without giving too much thought to the details. Fur- thermore, this method decreases the number of undesirable plans, that are brought to the president's office; fre- quently, when one manager presents his plan to another, he is shown why it is not practicable, or how it would conflict with some fundamental pol- icy."

Birthplace of Famous Ships.

Many famous warships were built and launched at Portsmouth, N. H., the first being the 54-gun ship Fauk- land of the English navy, launched in 1690. It was followed by the Bed, 1696, and by the America in 1749, all of the British navy. The first ves- sel of the continental navy launched there was the 32-gun Raleigh in 1775. The second was the immortal Ranger, from whose deck John Paul Jones re- ceived the first salute to the Stars and Stripes on February 14, 1778. The frigate Congress, sunk by the Confed- erate ironclad Merrimac, and the Kearsarge, which sank the Confeder- ate steamer Alabama off Cherbourg, France, were two other famous Yankee war vessels built at Portsmouth.

CAVE-MEN IN MANY LANDS

Some of Their Dwellings Are Not Without a Fair Standard of Modern Comfort.

Troglodytes, cave men, living in their cave dwellings, are to be found in Mexico, the Canary Islands, in the Crimea, as well as in Spain, France, Italy and England, according to Har- old J. Shepstone, in the Wide World Magazine. The Italian troglodyte dwellings at Bari are little more than houses which it has been found simpler to cut out of the soft rock rather than to go to the trouble of collecting build- ing materials.

The chief headquarters of the Span- ish troglodytes is the village of Bur- gasot, near Valencia. Their dwellings are practically entirely beneath the ground. Many of these dwellings have been recently excavated and offer a fair standard of comfort, often having a handsome palm tree in front of the entrance.

Throughout the whole of Crimea there are endless successions of cave dwellings, but the only ones still in- habited are in Inkermann, a name which itself means "cave castle." There are vast holes and cozy rooms, with ledges of stones which were doubtless bedsteads in prehistoric times. There is also a wonderful cave church, fitted with columns, a choir loft and elaborate sarcophagi. The altar and the cross are of so unique a form that antiquarians are unable to con- nect them with any known sect.

WEAR DEAD HUSBAND'S SKULL

Andaman Widows Carry Grewsome Relic for Full Year, and Then Take Another Mate.

Widows in the Andaman islands mourn on the death of their husbands by detaching the jaws of the dead, placing the heads on a platform in a tree for the birds to pick, then clean- ing and ornamenting them with shells and wearing them on their backs for a year, even while working. At the end of the year they are free to marry again.

The widow has a warrior picked out for her by the chief, and he is usu- ally accepted by her at sight. Then she goes to some lone spot, buries her beloved skull and returns to the camp to feast and dance. She soon, how- ever, returns to the skull and spends a week in praying and fasting in its company, after which the skull is un- earthed and brought to the village, where it is stuck on a pole and made to look on at a scene of feasting and dancing. When the marriage cere- mony is over the skull is buried some- where and forgotten.

The dead man is of no importance to the tribe. At the banquet the people gorge themselves and whirl and dance like mad things to the sound of the yemnga, a native instrument, until they drop one by one from sheer ex- haustion.

Alexandria Modern City.

Alexandria, founded by the world conquerer, Alexander the Great, is an Egyptian city that is eager to lose its connection with the far away past and become completely modernized. Fate favors this ambition, for the won- ders that Cleopatra knew have been eaten by fire or swept away by the sea. Alexandria is a city of trade and fashion, dominated by prosperous Europeans too deeply absorbed in the stock exchange to be even vaguely in- terested in the romantic side of their city.

Except for a few visitors who have read a little history and are wildly in- quisitive regarding Cleopatra's palace and Pompey's pillar, the ruins of Al- exandria rest peacefully, unphoto- graphed and unchipped by souvenir hunters. One thing against the popu- larity of Alexandria's ruins is their scantiness. For the most part, they consist of a few carved stones and some "sites."

The Timid Child.

The timid child is recognized at a glance. He is lacking in self-confi- dence and initiative. What he needs most is to lose himself in the games and recitations. This is the pupil who is not able to recite—seldom responds for fear of criticism. Such children as these must gradually be brought to the foreground by the judicious teach er.—Montreal Herald.

THE MOST WONDERFUL THING IN THE WORLD FOR RHEUMATISM

Positive Relief or Your Money Back

Everybody knows that there is only one known sure relief for rheumatism, neuritis, lumbago and eczema in the world—and that is the baths at the Hot Sulphur Springs.

If you could have these baths in your own bathroom you know that you would never need fear the pains of such attacks as long as you lived.

The miracle has been brought about at last in SULFLUID, which is identically the same as the Hot Sulphur Springs Baths, and produces the same results, only much more quickly.

Mr. C. W. Goodwin, 366 Broadway, N. Y. City, writes: "I beg to say that I have used a full treatment of SULFLUID, recommended by you for rheumatic trouble, and I find that I have received wonderful benefit by using same. The fact is, prior to using this I and Sulphur I suffered a great deal with rheumatism in my left leg, which has now entirely disappeared."

SULFLUID is not a patent medicine. It is absolutely harmless and is guaranteed to relieve the worst case of rheumatism, lumbago or neuritis, eczema, eruptions, no matter how chronic or acute. If it fails, we will refund the money without a question. Ask for the SULFLUID booklet. It is free.

USED AUTOMOBILES OF GUARANTEED VALUE

A demand for "the very latest" on the part of many automobile owners constantly places in our stock a line of used automobiles of exceptional value.

You can buy them at considerably below the price of new machines. At the same time they're in excellent running condition.

The fact that we have taken them in part payment on a new machine is in itself a guarantee of value. In addition each machine before being placed on our sales floor is given individual attention.

See the Used Cars we're showing now. Prices range from $300 to $1000.

Pays to Protect House Wren.

The house wren is one of the most sociable and confiding of birds, and on this account they will build their nests in little houses that are built for them no matter how close this is to a human habitation says the American Forestry association, Washington. Furthermore, the wren is one of the most valuable of birds, for it feeds entirely on insects and thus helps to save the trees and the vegetables in the garden from the pests which would eat them. The wren builds its nest of grass or weeds stuffed into any crevice that takes its fancy.

Two Church Designations.

The word "protestant" includes many churches, the Protestant Episcopal and the Methodist Episcopal among them. The word "protestant" came into use at the time of the Reformation both in England and on the continent. It stood for a protest against the Roman Catholic church. The name is not particularly significant at this time when all of the churches are drawing closer together. —Brooklyn Eagle.

Sound Advice.

Some young fellows think that it is "smart," "clever," and a sign of bravery to drive near the edge of a precipice; to spend what cash they have freely; and to be a good fellow and take the risk someone else urges upon them. This is the sign of inexperience and lack of real business knowledge and experience. Play safe. Keep clean. Be strong. Be true, and you will never regret it.—Exchange.

Modern Greek Language.

The modern Greek language is a dialect of the ancient Greeks, and the literary language of today is a continuation of the main literary dialect of ancient Greece, the Attic, as modified by passing through Byzantine. The modern vernacular is sometimes called Romaic. At the present time there is a tendency among the Greek authors to return more closely to the ancient form of the language.

Polar Ice.

In the region around the south pole, Sir Ernest Shackleton found various kinds of ice to which he gives interesting names in his new book, "South." Thus one kind he pictures as "young ice:" another as "light pack;" another as "drift ice." Heavy hummocked pack and close pack are the roughest in appearance, with ragged little crags covering all the surface.

Things That Are Never Wasted.

No honest work is wasted. Force is never lost. You may not see the results you expect, but there are always results when there is effort. Never let yourself think that anything you have done has been done in vain. Effort and achievement are inseparable.

Take Burden Off Daddy.

According to Chinese custom the wife's family is to provide a certain amount of baby clothes, shoes and caps for the first-born. Rich families usually supply everything for the child for five or ten years. The wife will be looked down upon by her husband's people if her own family cannot furnish plenty of clothes.

Talking "To" and "With."

To talk to a person is to address words to him; to talk with a person is to speak and listen alternately—to carry on a conversation; to talk of or about a person is to say things concerning him; to talk at a person is to address words to another or others for the purpose of having them heard by the one for whom they are meant.

Camels Failed to Thrive Here.

Camels and their near relatives, the dromedaries, have been introduced in this country from the old world at various times. Some were brought to Virginia in 1701. But, owing to lack of knowledge of their habits and of proper methods of caring for them, these attempts have proved failures.

Why Blacksmith Shop Is Dark.

A blacksmith keeps his shop dark because his work with iron demands that he should see the "heat" colors of the metals. This would be difficult in a well-lighted place.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Land of My Fathers" is perhaps the most widely sung of all Welsh airs. The composer was Evan Jones and a monument is erected to his memory at Pontypridd.

Value of Mottoes.

The object of mottoes is to point out something we have not yet attained, yet strive after. It is good to keep them constantly before our eyes.—Goethe.

And So Are Immune.

"Less than half the people struck by lightning are killed," says a floating scientific item. The other half, we suppose, try to be presidential candidates.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Chummy Mexico.

In Mexico men and women in the same social circle call each other by their Christian names.

Selfishness Gains Nothing.

Men should see life as more than a means of personal advancement. Selfishness may achieve, but its inglorious name will soon be forgotten in the round of yesterdays. It's life that lives for the common good that lays tribute on humanity and carves an indelible name in the very foundations of history. Call it Utopian if you will. Facts show that men must die to really live. And men who give themselves to human betterment live as they raise others from unreasonable drudgery to honorable toil and common comforts.

Prolific Mesquite Tree.

A historical mesquite tree, cut down in Honolulu, Hawaii, October 23, 1919, which served as a valuable source of seed, and had been a landmark attracting the interest of thousands of tourists traversing the Pacific ocean, had, during the ninety-two years of its existence, been the progenitor of thousands of trees which now cover throughout the Hawaiian island group approximately 90,000 acres of mostly barren land which formerly was worthless.

Standard English Pound.

The original English pound was derived from the weight of 7,680 grains of wheat taken from the middle of the ears and well dried. This remained the standard from the time of William the Conqueror to the time of Henry VIII, in whose reign the avoirdupois pound of 7,000 grains came into use. This was established as the standard pound during the reign of Queen Elizabeth and has been continued to the present day.

Cornish Tin Miners.

The men who work in the Cornish tin mines are a class by themselves, and all their differences are adjusted by the stannary courts, as they are called from the Latin word stannum. These curious courts have existed in their present form since the middle of the thirteenth century, and, in a simpler form, much earlier; and the miners claim to be free from all other jurisdiction, "except in matters affecting the land, life or limb."

Useful Kerosene.

Housewives, with but few exceptions, do not properly value kerosene. As a lubricant a drop or two will set things going which refused to go before. As a cleanser it can often be used with great advantage in place of soap and water. Floors can be more quickly and more thoroughly cleaned with a well-oiled mop than with soap and water, leaving a bright, shining surface.

Pacific Ocean Once South Sea.

The South sea is the name originally given and sometimes still applied to the Pacific ocean. In 1513 Balboa crossed the isthmus and arrived on September 29 at a mountain, from the summit of which, looking south, he beheld the expanse of the ocean stretching out before him, while the northern part was closed from view. He named it, therefore, the South sea.

Dignified Protest.

It is told of an old negro servant of rough propensities, as many a darky is, that on one occasion he was unjustly reprimanded by his master for the disappearance of a certain article of value. His reply was: "Marse Andrew, I has enuff to answer fer wid the sensations what is just, widout having to be sponsible for dem what aint so."

Introduction of the Umbrella.

The umbrella was used in England as a luxurious sunshade early in the seventeenth century. Ben Jonson mentions it in a comedy produced in 1616. The eighteenth century had half elapsed before the umbrella had even begun to be used in England by both sexes as it is now.

Prairie Dogs.

The little ground squirrels, or prairie dogs of the western plains, have their homes 12 or 15 feet underground, with corridors and rooms. In some of these chambers the squirrel family lives, and in others food and various materials are stored.

Happiness consists in the enjoyment of little pleasures, scattered along the common path of life, which, in the eager search for some great and exciting joy, we are apt to overlook.—Exchange.

A Secret.

"Why, yes," said Miss Pertie Goodwin to her intimate friend. "Harry and I are going to have a secret wedding. Not a soul is going to know of it till it's over. Haven't you heard?"

Trying to Look Poor.

Personally we try to be economical in our dress, but we have to wear fine clothes to keep from being mistaken for a capitalist.—Dallas News.

Medicine in Literature.

Jud Tunkin says that half the good a bottle of medicine does him is in the encouragement he gets from reading the literature wrapped around it.

Where Brains Don't Count.

One of the strangest things in this world is how difficult it is for an intellectual to change tires on a motor car.—Dallas News.

STR. WHIGHAM MAKES A GOOD IMPRESSION

The steamer William Whigham of the Carnegie line, made its initial trip up the Monongahela river last Saturday afternoon, and was given an enthusiastic greeting by the boats along the way. On board the boat were Capt. Al. Ackard, superintendent of transportation for the line, as well as a number of officials of the Carnegie company accompanied by their wives. The boat went to Ronco, where it picked up a capacity tow of six big steel barges of coal and started on its return trip immediately.

On the town trip the Whigham had a "brush" with the Williams of the same line in the sixth pool and there would have been a merry race had not the Whigham blown out a joint, which compelled the boat to stop to make temporary repairs. After fixing the joint the Whigham continued on theway to Clairton, where the tow was delivered, after which the steamer went to the marine ways at Coal Valley for some minor repairs to the machinery. When these are completed the boat will resume its place in the trade.

The Whigham presents some changes from the two other steamers of this type, the Williams and the Thomson, one particularly, which seems to work to advantage being the lesser depth of bucket on the wheel, the Whigham having only a 40-inch depth, while the other boats have 44 inches. The smaller wheel appears to give better service and the others will likely be changed.

BOARD OF TRADE

a road ever existed, or that they had made any promises concerning its improvement. After considerable discussion it was finally decided to appoint a publicity director, whose duty it would be to furnish data concerning this highway and have it published; also to advertise a mass meeting to be held in the Charleroi Savings and Trust company hall, Thursday evening, May 15, at which time a number of speakers are expected to be present. Candidates now seeking election will also be invited to give expression to their opinion, while a general invitation will be extended to the public to be present. The Board of Trade proposes to be active in promoting the improvement of this highway and hope to crystalize public sentiment to such an extent that state and county officials will be stirred into action.

The meeting also took action looking toward the coming Redpath Chautauqua, which will be in Charleroi the week beginning June 27, extending to Saturday, July 3. The Chautauqua will be held on the ball park this year, and the local committee believes this will tend to make it more popular.

After electing a board of nine directors the meeting adjourned.

COUNTY SEAT OPPOSES DAYLIGHT SAVING PLAN

The council of the borough of Washington, at a called meeting held Wednesday evening, voted against the daylight saving proposition. Quite a number of citizens were present and the discussion soon developed into an open forum. Finally a resolution offered by a member of council adhering to the old standard of time was adopted by a vote of 17 to 3. The burgess of the town had a few days before issued a proclamation asking people to observe the daylight saving plan. As a consequence of these actions Washington is somewhat confused on the time question.

MONESSEN AFTER AUTO SPEEDERS

The police department of Monessen, on Monday last, began a campaign to break up reckless and fast driving which has prevailed in that town for some time Several license numbers were turned into the police station and the drivers of the cars were ordered to report for hearings.

Numerous compiaints have been received by borough officials that the ordinance regarding the eight-mile an hour regulation in the vicinity of school buildings was being violated and officers were placed near the buildings to stop the violators.

Borough officials say that it is evident that other auto drivers have forgotten the state and borough laws in regard to passing street cars while they are discharging passengers, and the police have been notified to keep a close tab on the violators and to bring them before court. The opening of spring weather has brought out hundreds of machines, and unless due precaution is observed there is bound to be more or less accidents.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR PRINTING BALLOTS

The contract for primary ballots, to ruse at the primary election to be held on the 18th of May, was on Thursday awarded by the county commissioners to the Ward Printing company of Washington for $3,315, this firm being the only bidder. The contract calls for 47,085 official and 18,140 specimen ballots.

ROSCOE TEACHERS ARE ELECTED FOR NEXT YEAR

The Roscoe school board at a meeting held last Thursday evening, elected the following teachers: Grade 1. Clara A Carson; grade 2, Susie Piribek; grade 3 Alma M. Carson; grade 4. Dora Nicoletto; grade 5, Isabel Coulson; grade 6, Margaret Cairns; grade 7 Bessie Ridgway; grade 8 Principal William G. Frantz.

WELL KNOWN CIVIL WAR VETERAN DEAD

William H UnJerwood, for many years one of Washington's leading citizens, a former county official and former postmaster of Washington, died at the Soldiers' Home. Dayton, Ohio on Monday last. He was the father of Owen C. Underwood, former district attorney of the county. Funeral services were held at Washington this afternoon, where the interment took place.

Invest In Home and Proven Territory

Has 1400 acres of choice oil and gas leases scattered through the very heart of Washington county oil belt with producing oil and gas well on all sides.

Penn State is incorporated under the laws of Delaware for $300,000 the profits from the production, 50 per cent to stockholders and the other 50 per cent for further drilling.

Contracts let for first two wells, No. 1 on Washington Floral Co's 45 acres near Washington. Pa., where the contractor now has the derrick completed and will be drilling in a few days, this lease has produced hundreds of thousands of barrels of crude oil and is completely surrounded by pumping wells.

No. 2 has rig timbers and lumber on ground and will also be drilling in a few days, this location is in the center of a block of 700 acres nean Canonsburg, Pa., on the farm of J. R. McNary and has oil and gas wells on all sides from the upper sands.

Other wells will be drilled as fast as our contractor can drill them either on these farms or on other farms of the 1400 acres the company has around Washington.

REFUGE SPOTS FOR ELOPERS

Fleet Prison and Gretna Green Were Highly Desirable Places in the Olden Time.

Gretna Green, whose chief industry was once matrimony, is a village in Scotland less than a mile from the River Sark, which marks the English-Scottish boundary line in that vicinity, near the Solway firth. The English marriage laws sent eloping couples to Scotland just as the divorce laws of 47 of our states make Reno desirable for would-be divorcees, and therein lies Gretna Green's first claim to fame.

Fleet prison was the figurative "Gretna Green" of England until the passage of the famous Hardwicke act of 1754, which made unauthorized marriages voidable. Gretna Green thereupon becoming the romance spot of the British isles. All the Scottish law required was that two persons should declare their intention to be married in the presence of witnesses, and the British law then, as now, recognizes marriages as legal so long as they conformed to the laws in the places where they were performed.

During the three decades when Gretna Green flourished, there were more than 7,000 marriages recorded there, nearly 800 of which were performed in 1835, the year before Scotland enacted a law which made a three weeks' residence a requisite to marriage. Marriage by declaration is still legal in Scotland.

BE THANKFUL YOU CAN SMELL

English Woman Writer Went Through Life Keenly Regretting Her Lack of That Sense.

Did it ever occur to you to be grateful for the sense of smell? Probably not and yet those who have been deprived of it have felt their loss keenly.

Harriet Martineau the famous English writer, lacked the sense of smell and consequently the sense of taste, which depends on smell. Once and only once she tasted in all the intensity of flavor a slice of a leg of mutton. The sense came to her suddenly and she thought and hoped it had come to stay.

"I was going out to a great dinner that night," she said when telling of her one taste, "and I looked forward with great eagerness to the dainties that I knew would be set before me. How I should enjoy practicing my new-found sense of taste!"

But, alas, the sense of taste disappeared as suddenly as it had come, and never returned, and she went through life remembering that taste of roast mutton as one of her keenest joys.

Could See Resemblance.

In a downtown store the other day a woman stood near the cash desk very pardonably and proudly showing off a little baby girl, of whom the exhibitor quite obviously was an aunt. The child's effectiveness consisted mainly of its head-dress and a cluster of rich golden curls. An admiring group soon gathered around, while the woman pointed out the baby's finer points of beauty, concluding with the rather far-fetched statement that "Everybody says she looks just like me!" The woman, busy talking, did not notice that the child had become restive and was tugging with both hands at the ribbons which fastened the dainty cap on her head, and suddenly the knot was untied, and off came the cap. And off came the curls, too, which were fastened to the cap, leaving the baby as bald as the doorwalker who stood grinning nearby. There was a moment of charitable silence, and then someone in the crowd turned away with the remark: "Well, she does look a good deal like the old lady, at that."—Kansas City Star.

Canals.

A suggestion made by a Londoner that the bed of the Forth and Clyde canal should be converted into a highway of traffic has not been received north of the Tweed with the indignation that might have been expected. The Glasgow Herald says the notion is not so extravagant as it might appear. The swift progress of motor transport threatens the railways, and it can scarcely fail to affect the position of the canals in industrial and commercial economy. The canal belongs to those leisurely periods of the world's history which saw Egypt and China at their apogee. It was, it is interesting to remember, in the fifteenth century, a time of development if ever there was, that canal engineering received its great impetus in the Western world owing to the discovery of the "lock" system. England applied the new idea with such thoroughness that her canal system became second, probably, only to that of Holland.

Accident Policy's Limit.

If a man die of blood poisoning as the result of giving himself a hypodermic injection, his family can collect nothing on his accident insurance policy. For the possession of a hypodermic needle is a violation of the New York public health law, Article 11A; therefore the man commits a crime and dies as the result. This was decided by the appellate division in a recent case.

Next Antarctic Expedition.

Great Britain's next expedition to the antarctic regions will endeavor to learn something additional about the habits and migrations of whales and to ascertain the mineral and other deposits of economic value.

Campaign Has Its Uses.

"I welcome a political campaign," said Jud Tunkins. "Mebbe it'll bring along enough new kinds of argyment to take our minds off'n the high cost of living."

Before the Day of the Auto.

A camel with the neck and legs of a giraffe ranged the plains of Colorado with the three-toed ancestor of the horse 1,500,000 years ago.

Daily Thought.

Affection is the broadest basis of social life.—George Eliot.

Fraternal Friendship.

A curate of a very nervous temperament was constantly making awkward remarks intended as compliments. Having distinguished himself in an unusual degree during a gathering of clergy at the bishop's palace, he was taken to task for his failings by a senior curate who was one of his companions on the way home. "Look here!" said the senior decidedly. "You are a donkey! Why cannot you keep quiet instead of making your asinine remarks? Mind you, I am speaking to you now as a brother!"

A Love Story in Japan.

What would the American reader think, having been brought by the author to that place where the hero's voice becomes soft and the heroine blushes and lowers her eyes, to see a row of asterisks indicating a foot-note, which says: "At this point he asked her to marry him." That is what the Japanese have done in the love scene in "John Halifax, Gentleman," so that it might accord with their peculiar sense of delicacy.—World Outlook.

Daughter's Comeback.

Mother—"Shame on you, Dorothy! The idea of letting a boy whom you've known only a week, kiss you! Why, when I was your age a girl was considered vulgar who would let a boy even hold her hand until he'd known her several months." Daughter (insouciantly)—"And didn't you say, once, mother that it used to take you two weeks to go from New York to Chicago?"—Yale Record.

Washington's Political Faith.

Washington was a Federalist, and a strong party man at that, but he was unanimously elected to the presidency by the Federalists and Democrats. He was also the unanimous choice when running for re-election. John Adams was vice president under Washington and succeeded him in the presidency. There was a contest, however, in 1796 between Adams, Federalist, and Jefferson, Democrat, in which the former was the winner.

GOT OVER THE DIFFICULTY

Chaplain Evidently Found Some Way to Get Around the Regulations of the Navy.

In June, 1911, writes Dr. Maurice F. Egan in his book, "Ten Years Near the German Frontier," the Atlantic squadron stopped at Denmark on its way to Germany. One day the equerry who had been appointed to look after the admiral and his immediate suite came to me in great perplexity. It was shortly after one of the receptions given by the American officers. He held in his hand a little box.

"I am in difficulty," he said, "and I have come to ask you to help me. His majesty has received several letters from the American sailors, and there is one that especially amused him. It seems that he pleased the men by asking for the Scandinavians in your navy. A sailor who addresses him as 'Dear King' thanks him for this and declares that the men like Copenhagen so much that they beg his majesty to induce the admiral to stay a few days longer. Of course his majesty cannot do that, but he has asked me to give the little medal in this box to the sailor. I am told that it is against the rules, which seem to be very strict, yet I really cannot tell the king that I have not given the medal to the worthy sailor. You know the king's kindness of heart. I am at my wit's end, so I appeal to you."

"It is easy enough," I said. "When in a quandary of this kind call in the church."

We found the chaplain, and Frederick VIII received a grateful note, addressed, "Dear King."

BIG SPIDER WRONGLY NAMED

Insect Found in the Southwestern States and in Mexico Not Really a Tarantula.

The famous tarantula, sometimes represented as one of the terrors of the arid portions of the Southwestern states and northern Mexico, is not really, it seems, the tarantula of history and of fable.

An eminent authority in such matters, in remarking that the tarantula is a spider, says of that terrifying creature that it is the Lycosa Tarantula, a species of spider found in some of the warmer parts of Italy and Spain. When full grown it is about the size of a chestnut and of a brown color. Its bite was at one time supposed to be dangerous and to induce a kind of "dancing disease," but now it is known not to be worse than the sting of a common wasp.

It is an old fable, extending to remotest times, that the bite of this spider would produce epilepsy or a strange dancing mania in its victims, and that this epilepsy or madness could be relieved only by a particular kind of music. The tarantula of Italy and Spain—and it is found in those countries today—has hairy legs with black markings on them.

It is very likely that when the early Spanish explorers came upon the great spider of the Southwest, and seeing a good deal of resemblance to the tarantula of the Old World, those explorers, not being entomologists, called the new spider a tarantula. And the name has persisted.

Earthquake Peculiarities.

A peculiar feature of earthquakes is that they seem to undulate the ground with a twisting motion. This effect is quite noticeable in almost every Central American or southern Mexico quake, when straight rows of trees are shifted into irregular zigzags or light buildings twisted about on their foundations, and many odd effects are created in this manner. Statistics tend to show that the maximum of earthquake disturbances occurs in the northern hemisphere during the months of January, August and October, with a minimum during May, June and July. The southern hemisphere's period of greatest activity is November, May and June, while the minimum is in March and August. It will be noted from the above that the period of greatest activity is during the cool months, and although this may not appear to be true in regard to the Southern hemisphere, it must be remembered that its seasons are just the reverse of ours in the northern hemisphere.

The completion of the first railway which made it possible to go by rail from the Atlantic to the Pacific was celebrated on May 10, 1869, when a gold spike was driven to commemorate the joining of the Central Pacific and the Union Pacific at Promontory, Utah. The scene was depicted by Bret Harte in a poem which is preserved for the future by a massive painting which had wide popularity. The similar last spike of the Northern Pacific was driven September 8, 1883, near the mouth of Gold creek in Montana. On the earlier road the first through car from the Pacific reached New York on July 24, 1870.

Motor as Rival of Camel.

The camel replaces the motor truck for general hauling in Asia Minor. By this means twelve miles a day is traversed, but where the camel "has it on" the motor truck is in the upkeep. The camel needs nothing but the few weeds and blades of grass he can pick from along the roadside. The great difficulty with the animal as a mode of transportation is that all articles shipped by camel must be of a nature that they can stand a long journey without spoiling.

Pioneers in Pencil Industry.

The first lead pencil manufacturer in the United States was William Monroe of Concord, Mass., who, in 1812, invented a process by which he pulverized and mixed the material and incased it in cedar holders. He was very successful in selling his product and continued the business for a year and a half, when he was obliged to give it up on account of the difficulty in obtaining raw materials. Another pioneer in the industry was Joseph Dixon, who commenced business in 1827.

Essay on Geese.

The following composition on geese was written, according to Capper's Weekly, by a schoolboy in St. Louis: "Geese is a heavy-set bird with a head on one side and a tail on the other. His feet is set so far back on his running gear that they nearly miss his body. Some geese is ganders and has a curl in his tail. Ganders don't lay or set. They just eat, loaf and go swimming. If I had to be a geese, I would rather be a gander. Geese do not give milk, but give eggs, but for me, give me liberty or give me death."

How Graphite Is Mined.

The mining and purification of graphite used in lead pencils is not unlike the process of silver ore. It is generally found mixed with quartz, silica and mica. It is necessary to pulverize the rock with crushing machinery, which is followed by the extraction of the graphite. Before the graphite is mixed with the clay it is strained through very fine silk sieves, so that all particles the least bit coarse may be removed.

He Passed.

"At one of our examinations," says a member of the faculty of a western university, "a nervous student had been instructed to write out examples of the indicative, subjunctive, potential and exclamatory moods. His efforts resulted as follows: 'I am endeavoring to pass an English examination. If I answer 20 questions, I shall pass. If I answer 12, I may pass. God help me!'"—Harper's Magazine.

Sure Signs of Storms.

A sudden and local motion of the air, not otherwise seen but by its whirling up the dust on a dry road in calm weather, in the manner of a waterspout, is a sure sign of a coming storm. When swallows fly low it is a sign of approaching rain. This is accounted for by the fact that before rain insects which are the swallows' food fly very low, and the swallows always fly where their food is.

Negroes Dislike of the Hound.

The southern negroes hate the hound. They say it used to be a nice sleek watchdog which Adam left to guard the gate of Paradise, but it went snuffing around to find a hare or rabbit and let the old devil sneak in. Then the Lord said it should be a dog no longer, but a hound, always hunting and always starving, so to hear a hound is a bad sign.

The Arctic Tern.

Although the golden plover makes a longer continuous flight than any other bird, the arctic tern travels farther, breeding far North. It winters on the edge of the antarctic continent, 11,000 miles away. Incidentally, it enjoys more hours of sunlight in a year than any other living creature.

Marking Passage of Time.

It was the first day of school and Gordon, who is now in the second grade, brought his little brother, Arthur, to school with him to start in the first grade. The teacher said to Gordon: "How old is Arthur?" Gordon answered: "I don't know, but we've had him to three fairs."

Unwelcome Immigrant.

The boll weevil is something this country has acquired from Mexico. It crossed the Rio Grande river in 1892. Since then it has been traveling from 40 to 160 miles each year, and now covers the greater part of the cotton states.

"Do you believe in the absolute equality of men?" "I do not," replied the aged sport. "If I did I wouldn't be able to see the sense in any friendly contest, from a prize fight to a checker game."

Woman's Heart.

Knock at a hundred doors, one opens; speak to a hundred hearts, one throbs. The door that opens is a woman's love; the heart that throbs is a woman's heart.

Electricity Swifter Than Light.

The velocity of electricity far exceeds that of light. Light travels at the rate of 186,400 miles a second, electricity, at the rate of 248,500 miles a second.

London Cats.

Thirty thousand starving cats are rescued from London streets every year. They are painlessly killed, their skins being used for muffs and gloves. —Brooklyn Eagle.

No Change in Fish Hook Design.

Fish hooks have been made on exactly the same design for 2,000 years.

Sure Death to Corns

"Gets-It" Makes 'Em Lose Their Grip and Lift Off Painlessly.

The first thing "Gets-It" does when it lands on a corn or callus is to snuff out the pain. Then it shrivels the corn or callus and loosens it.

"Gets-It" Spells "Finish" for Corns

Soon, it is almost ready to fall off. You help it just a little by lifting it off 'twixt thumb and finger. You don't even feel it, because there is no hurt left in it. Millions have proved it the cleanest, surest, safest and most pleasant method.

"Gets-It," the never failing, guaranteed money-back corn remover costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sold in Wheeling and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Frank J. John and Piper's Pharmacy, Carrolls Drug Store.

VOLUME XX—279 CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA. FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1920 TWO CENTS

BOARD OF TRADE TO INSIST ON RIVER ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Will Demand Something More Than Promises for Speers-Coal Center Road

MASS MEETING FOR MAY 13

The meeting of the Charleroi Board of Trade, held at the Elks' Club last evening, finally resolved itseelf into an indignation meeting, because of the inaction of the state and county authorities with reference to the Speers-Coal Centre road. The discussion of the road meeting came as theculmination of a very busy evening in which a number of questions of vital interest to the people of the community were discussed.

About forty members of the organization were present at the dinner served in the Elks' new dining room, after which the meeting adjourned to the lodge room, where the questions were taken up and discussed.

The first matter of moment was report as to the headway being made with the Pittsburg Railways company concerning the fare zones as they relate to Charleroi. As at present constituted the zone ends at First street, and shoppers visiting Charleroi must pay an additional fare to and from Fifth street to points beyond First street, which is the dividing point. What the merchants desire is that Fifth street be made the dividing line. Interviews were had with two of the Receivtrs. but final action has been delayed b ecause of the wage conditions on the line, which for a time appeared to be cause for a strike of employes. As soon as the wage question is disposed of the local zone question will be taken up and decided.

The new rates of the Bell Telephone company were also discussed. Mr. Burwell, local manager, was present and explained the new rates, which are on what are called a classification basis, and based on the number of telephones within the free area. The proposed system was severely criticised by a number of the members, who characterized it as being unjust, unfair and orbitrary. It was pointed out that different communities would have to pay different rates, while those who are required to make a number of out of town calls will have very high telephone charges. The members took no action, as the borough has already filed a protest, which they as an organization are in sympathy with.

The discussion of the condition of the road between Speers and Coal Centre was the cause of the members giving expression to vigorous opinion concerning the manner in which this locality has been treated. They declared they had been fed up on promises, of what would be done if the bond issue was approved, and now that it has been passed, officials appeared to forget that such

CHURCH PUTS OVER A BIG SUBSCRIPTION

As an instance of what a church can do when it gets down to real work is shown by the fact that the Third United Presbyterian church of Connellsville on Sunday last, which had a quota of $33,365.50 under the interchurch movement, subscribed $33,790.20, with 51 families to beheard from. The church took on other responsibilities as well agreeing to pay thesalary of a missionary in India and one in Cairo, Egypt.

PREACHING AT MAPLE CREEK BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be preaching at the Maple Creek Baptist church, Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning at 11 o'cock by F. A. Eleadenger of West Virginia.

Lot Owner Stood Guard Over Big Producing Well

West Newton was a city of excitement a few days ago and hundreds of automobiles lined the highways in that section enroute to the new famous Coal Hollow as a result of the strike of gas there on Friday last.

John Troup, a humble coal miner, who is the owner of the small plot of ground on which the big well was drilled, refused $35,000 for his interest Saturday night last, saying he refused to sell at any price. At the time he was standing guard at the well, and while permission was given to spectators to walk in and about the premises, care was exercised that no one was admitted who was smoking.

The people residing along both sides of the hollow all work in mines along the Youghiogheny, and own their own homes, which in most cases is a small house and a hal acre or so of ground. They received the news of the big strike with great joy and many of them have faith that future drilling activities will bring to them the s ame goodluck as their neighbor.

Practically the entire country throughout that section of the river is under lease and since the Coal Hollow strike companies are busy raising the necessary money to start drilling at once. People holding leases in that section and especially those along the anticlinal, have renewed hope of a strike since the news of the Coal Hollow success.

Another well is being drilled a short distance from the Troup well and is already down over 1,000 feet. Other wells will be drilled in that vicinity and some good strikes are expected.

BARGE LOAD FREIGHT FOR LOWER RIVER

The Pittsburg & Fairmont Transportation company acceding to the request of a large number of shippers, will send the hull of the old towing steamer Pacific No. 2, loaded with freight, from Pittsburg to Cincinnati. The barge, which has been at the Pittsburg wharf for several days has been loaded with several hundred tons of miscellaneous freight and in tow of a local steamer, will carry the cargo to Cincinnati, where it will be distributed to a number ofconsignees. It is likely the barge will also return with a good cargo of freight. The hull was recently purchased by the company for use as a wharfboat at the Pittsburg w harf, and will be utilized by the company when its line with Fairmont is established. Unsatisfactory freight service between Pittsburg and down river points is responsible for the action of the company to make this trip to Cincinnati.

GRAND JURY WILL MEET ON MONDAY

Criminal court for the May term will be convened one week from Monday, and will be in session possibly two weeks to dispose of cases. Following criminal court will come the May term of common pleas.

COMPANY DENIES ANY RESPONSIBILITY

In the suit of Angeline Mastrianna of Donora, against the American Steel & Wire company, an action to recover damages for the death of her husband the defendant company denies that Mastrianna died from fumes inhaled while at work in its mills. It is admitted that he worked for the company as stated, but it is denied that the illness which resulted in thedeath of John Mastrianna was due to the fumes as claimed, but was the result of cerebral tumor.

The company also denies entering into an agreement with the wife to pay her any sum whatever to settle the whole matter. After the death of John Mastrianna appeals were made to the company for assistance for the wife and infant son, who were reported to be in destitute circumstances. It was referred t o the mill committee and after an investigation a recommendation was made that the company contribute $250 toward the payment of the debts of the deceased. The company did his purely as a gratuity and charity, and in accordance with a well established custom of the company in alleviating distress among the dependents of its employes.

SOPHOMORES WIN THE INTER-CLASS FIELD AND TRACK MEET

Team Will Be Picked From Contestants for County Meet

TRACK OUTLOOK IS VERY GOOD

Friday afternoon at the local base ball g rounds the high school held an inter-class track and field meet, which proved to be a decided success. The meet started at 3 o'clock and finished at 6, after a number of very exciting events had been pulled off by the contestants. The purpose of the meet was to choose the team which will represent the Charleroi high school at the county meet to be held on College Feld at Washington on Saturday, May 8th, at which time all of the high schools of the county will be represented.

The meet was won by the Sophomore class, which scored 46 points. The Junior class came in second with 17 points, the Senior Class scored 12 points and the Freshman class scored 7 points. The track season of the local high, judging from the events of yesterday, promisesto be one of the best it has ever had.

The various events, the winners and the time are as follows:

100-yard dash, Webster, 11 seconds

Shot put—Dennis, 32 feet 3 inches.

Half mile run. Webster 1.58 3-4.

220-yard dash. Dennis, 24 1-2 seconds.

Pole vault, Arter, 8 feet.

Discus throw, Dennis, 80 feet, 7 inches.

One mile run, Webster 4 3-4 minutes.

Broad jump, McKenna, 17 feet 9 inches.

440-yard dash Webster, 53 1-2 seconds.

High jump Dennis, 4 feet, 10 inches.

At the Schenley Oval meet to be held tomorrow afternoon in Pittsburg, the Charleroi high school will be represented by Webster, Monack, Arter and Albright.

INVESTIGATING THE PRINT PAPER SHORTAGE

The print paper situation has become so serious that a hearing was held in Washington on Wednesday before the Senate investigating committee to ascertain the cause. Brokers and small manufacturers are blamed for present conditions, which has not only caused a scarcity of paper, but likewise boosted the prices to at least three and four times as much as they were formerly. Unless there is a radical change for the better within the next few months the mortality among the smaller publications is going to be quite serious.

COUNTY COURTS ON STANDARD TIME

With the convening of the grand jury at Washington next Monday some question came up as to whether the Washington county courts would observe standard or daylight conservation time. While no official action has been taken by the courts, Judge Brownson stated on Thursday that it appeared that the court on Monday will have to be convened under the legally authorized time, that is the old time. The hour for the c onvening of motion and rule court is fixed at 10 o'clock. and that means the legally standardized time and no other. In that case motion and rule court will be converted at 10 o'clock old time. or 11 o'clock new time.

Summonses sent out in connection with court, such as subpoenas, notices to jurors, etc., designate that the parties be in court at such and such a time. The theory of the court is that time is the legal time or old

As to the grand jury, that body can fix its own time as to meeting and adjourning, but it has been the custom to sit during the regular appointed hours, that is, from 9:15 in the morning until 12 o'clock noon, and from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 4:30 o'clock If these hours are followed, the courts conforming to the regular s et hours and old time it means the grand jury will follow the old time.

The court house offices have been running practically on the fast time this week, particularly as to opening in the morning, but some have run an extra hour in the evening, that is, closing under the old time. The offices have certain hours for closing which are fixed under the old time. There is some question as to whether or not a public official is not liable for any inconveniences caused by closing the office an hour earlier than it would close under the old or legal time.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Spridik, April 28, at noon—a daughter, Laura Jean. Mrs. Spridik will be remembered as Miss Julia Fallen.

HOLD GOOD ROADS MEETING NEXT WEEK

Members of the Washington County Good Roads Association will hold their annual meeting in the public meeting of the court house at Washington on Monday May 3 at 11 o'clock a. m., old time. Officers for the coming year will be elected and a report made on the progress of the plan adopted for the last year. A discussion will take place on new problems, which is expected to produce some of the most interesting developments of the day.

Road building in Washington county is at a standstill and the usual problems are increased this year by the almost prohibitive bids being made by contractors. The last two bids for road work in the county average at the rate of $80,000 and $72,000 per mile.
